

Safety Interaction Guidance Document

Revision 01 2012

When attending a quarry site, you may be engaged by the site management. Below are some ideas of what subjects may be discussed and typical questions to expect:

- | | Yes | No |
|--|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| • Do you understand your work-place task? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Do you understand your work-place environment? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Have you been made aware of welfare facilities (toilets, canteen etc.)? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Do you know your point of contact? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Are you aware of the waste disposal facilities of the site? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • You should expect your site vehicle and associated equipment to be checked | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Have you been familiarised with the traffic controls on site? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Do you hold the relevant permission or permit to undertake the works? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Do you have your Risk Assessment and Safe Working Practice? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |
| • Do you feel that safe working area has been established? | <input type="radio"/> | <input type="radio"/> |

These interactions are a good opportunity to demonstrate your competence and professionalism, also a good opportunity to discuss any issues or problems you may have.

These guidance sheets have been produced for, and are aimed at, small independent businesses, new ventures and sole traders, not at mature organisations with fully operational procedures and policies in place.
